Award Camp Contract.

Otis G. Giles of this town has been awarded the job of constructing a new building at Camp Runels for the accommodation of the Greater Lowell Council of Girl Scouts.

The building, facing the pond, will measure 48 feet by 68 feet and will contain a large recreation and dancing hall (36x54 feet), a kitchen and store room. A spacious piazza 12 feet wide and 56 feet long will join the building on the pond side.

The new building will be constructed mainly of lumber salvaged from blown timber from the camp property, the result of the September hurricane.

The plans are already in the hands of Mr. Giles and the lumber is now ready at the mill of John Simpson at the old Saco-Lowell Shops yard. As soon as conditions are favorable the work will be started.

William S. Koehler, rural letter carrier from Pelham postoffice, has received a certificate of his promotion as technical sergeant in the First Corps area of the army amateur radio system from the army base at Boston. He was formerly sergeant. Technical Sergt. Koehler is now qualified as a radio mechanic and operator of code and voice radio communication equipment.

In case of national emergency, consideration will be given—subject to such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the War department—to the holder of such certificate in filling vacancies in the military service for which he is qualified.
