(Special to The Sun)

PELHAM, N. H., Aug. 11—At a special meeting of the school board recently the following teachers were elected to fill vacancies in district schools: Madelyn O'Neil of Lawrence, a graduate of Lowell State Teachers college, with two years teaching experience, to the Currier Highlands school, and Gretchen O'Mara of Franklin, N. H., a graduate of Plymouth Teachers college, with two years' teaching experience, for the North Pelham school. At a previous meeting, Mr. Henry Hastings of Raymond, N. H., was elected as headmaster of the junior high school. He is a graduate of Keene Normal school and has a B. S. degree in education from Fitchburg Teachers college.

The schools are being renovated and painted in preparation for the opening of school Sept. 9. The Gage Hill school has been cleaned and painted and most of the other schools are also to be renovated.
