REPORT
OF
THE SCHOOL BOARD,
OF THE
TOWN OF PELHAM, N. H.,
FOR THE YEAR ENDING MARCH 1, 1893.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

GEORGE S. BUTLER, . . . Term expires March, 1893.

AUGUSTUS BERRY, . . . Term expires March, 1894.

HENRY S. RUSS, . . . Term expires March, 1895.

REPORT.

One end of the school report should be to enlighten and stimulate the public sentiment in regard to the public schools. There should be progress from year to year in everything that pertains to the building up of a true system of public education. Improvements in school-houses, in implements of school work, in methods of teaching and in the character of the schools. It is important that the public understand that in which a good school consists. It is not in the fact that the parents and scholars like the teachers—though this is very desirable—but this may be the case and still the school be of small value. The worth of a school depends upon how it is taught and governed; the kind of influences operative in it; the intellectual and moral character it is developing. The pupil must learn to think and be compelled to think accurately. He must form the habit of self-reliance and self-application. The teacher must be able to take a measure of the child's capacities, and all tasks must be assigned and instruction imparted according to that measure. A school is not doing its work that fails to inculcate the virtues of life. Children should be taught truth, propriety, modesty, politeness, gentleness, kindness, reverence, purity, industry and frugality. These and other virtues should receive constant attention in the school. The room should be kept as neat as the best of homes.

THE MORAL TONE.

This in our schools as a whole is high, but the standard of the best should be higher and in some a better standard should be taken. It should be understood that each pupil must render implicit obedience; that he is not to do as he pleases, but as he is required, asking no questions, making no comments. This is absolutely necessary for the conduct of the school, for his own intellectual progress and the formation of the character of the true citizen. At school habits are formed that generally remain through life. It is of the utmost importance that they be right habits, for they will determine the men, women and citizens of the future. The state has made it the duty of the town to elect officers who shall have the charge of the schools. They are to determine what scholars shall study, how they shall study, their classification, and to what rules they shall conform. It is very plain that this is a principle on which the schools must be conducted, and the state wisely makes it a criminal offence to either interfere with this or to fail to conform to it.

THINGS NEEDED IN THE SCHOOLS.

They need the intelligent interest of all good citizens. Few have given sufficient thought to the subject of education to comprehend the progress of the last twenty-five years or the complete revolution of the last fifty. The citizen must inform himself by visiting the schools and reading upon the subject of education. He can get no correct knowledge of them from rumors and the tales of children. This can be attained only by observing their work and conversing with the teachers.

This must not be done in a spirit of criticism, but from a simple desire of knowing them; and the opinions he forms must be in the spirit of charity; there are many things in the way of the best results that as yet cannot be removed. There must be allowance for inexperience in teachers and for what the popular mind does not understand and is unwilling to accept. It must be remembered that the model teacher is rare, and school officers have in a large degree to waive the question of absolute fitness in the selection of the teachers and consider whether it is the best that they can do.

If a person has not been a constant student of education and is not abreast of the times in his information, he certainly will be modest in the expression of his opinions. But there are certain things that all can understand must be maintained, such as obedience, modest and chaste deportment, respectful demeanor and studiousness, and public sentiment must sustain committees and teachers in doing this. Public sentiment should also give its sanction and help in broadening, freshening and enlivening the course of study from even the primary grades. The brevity of this report does not admit of any detail, but this a matter of great importance.

THE PAST YEAR.

There has been excellent work in all the schools the past year. The advantage of a continuous teacher is apparent in schools where there has been the same teacher years in succession. It is a misfortune to change teachers from year to year, much more from term to term. The teachers have been qualified for their work and the advance reaches along the entire line. No one could visit schools where there have been rumors to the contrary and observe their work without the conviction that the rumors were false.

PLEASING EVERY ONE.

Does any one ever completely satisfy himself? Could we then expect it possible for others to perfectly satisfy us. Large charity must be exercised in all matters pertaining to the schools; a broad and liberal spirit must be cherished towards them. There must be a rising above pushing little dislikes, preferences and grievances to an exact adjustment.

The Board of Education have sought to do the best thing that could be done for each school. Literal equality is impossible, this would really be inequality, a teacher doing excellent work and of superior qualification would not be as acceptable in certain schools as another of less worth. The Board, if they could, would have equality in teaching capacity and all other things, but this is impossible; and if they could do this, it would not be recognized nor would it satisfy. It is to be noticed that the influence and power of the better school is felt beyond itself. It helps the elevation of all the others, and it is true of the poor school that it impairs in some degree the others. Instead of any jealousy of the more favored school there should be satisfaction and delight in its power for good.

THE SUPERVISION OF THE SCHOOLS.

This is a necessity, though an expense, a saving, the truest economy. It is like the foreman in the shop, the overseer in the mill, the agent in business. In supervision many profitable suggestions can be made not only to the inexperienced but the experienced teachers. Supervision not only gives greater efficiency to the work of a single school, but unity to the work of all the schools. The best interests of education demand a large amount of work apart from the teachers.

COLUMBUS DAY.

The observance of Columbus Day was a pleasant feature in the exercises of the schools the past year. The children acquitted themselves finely at the Town Hall; the teachers did themselves credit; the citizens manifested their love of country and appreciation of our public schools. The occasion will be memorable in the lives of the children and brilliant in the history of the town. The influence of it was good. Could the children of the town occasionally be brought together in some public school exercise, it would interest the people and quicken the life of the schools.

FLAGS.

It speaks well for the public spirit and patriotism of our population that each of our school houses has a flag staff, and the glorious banner of our country waves from it, and all came by voluntary contributions.

SCHOOL HOUSES.

If in no other way, an advance in the cause of education is seen in our school houses, and there should be no halt in this direction, the house is indispensable to the school. It is a large factor in the constitution of a good school; it is a fermentative agent in both the intellectual and moral character. Money expended in keeping the school house in thorough repair is expended for the better school and better education. It is true economy to keep the exterior painted and the furniture varnished. No. 1 has been painted and varnished the past year.

VARYING AND BROADENING THE COURSE OF STUDY.

In two of our schools, during the last two years, there have been classes in rhetoric that evinced taste and ability in the study of literature and they did excellent work. The present year the same classes have studied the principles of agriculture. In a purely agricultural population it is fitting that something of the science of agriculture should be taught in the schools, and in the future it is hoped that there will be some attention given to the nature of our government as preparatory to the discharge of the duties of the citizen.

THE INTEREST CENTERED IN THE SCHOOL HOUSE.

Here little children assemble for the unfolding of child life and character. This should be a hallowed place. Verily, nothing unclean, impure or false should be permitted here. It should be fortified against every pernicious influence. Here all the graces should be nurtured and noble inspirations inspired. The school house—what memories does it awaken in age; what hopes kindle in childhood! The possibilities of child life should hush all social bickering and silence little piques and jealousies. The selfish spirit should be shamed and a mantle of charity should be cast over the little things, that like the dust blown by a thoughtless breath is quickly magnified into mountains of Alpine height and ruggedness.

There are many topics upon which important and practical suggestions could be made. There is space for only two or three.

READING.

In this our schools will probably compare well with the schools of the state, but the reading is not what it should be, nor can it be till vocal culture is taught in the schools. The children need very much to be taught expression in reading, but this cannot be done while they are reading in books beyond their comprehension.

LANGUAGE.

More attention is given this than formerly. There are better text books, but it ought to be taught with each utterance of the scholar. The question has he expressed himself correctly should be constant.

UNITY OF THE SCHOOLS.

Before the advancing sentiment of the age which is as resistless as the on-going of the ages, the school system of New England is changing. Our schools are theoretically unified, and to a certain degree practically. The full recognition of this will bring harmony and rapid progress.

SCHOOL HELPS.

It is hoped and expected that the town library will be a help to the schools, that teachers may take classes there and consult books of reference, but aside from this it is important that there be some helps in the way of reference in the school room.

CALISTHENIC AND KINDERGARTEN EXERCISES.

While nothing can take the place of thorough intellectual work, such exercises are important adjuncts to it. Calisthenics rest and refresh the school. They impart grace of movement to the human frame and invigorate the system. We make a grateful recognition of these exercises as conducted by some of the teachers.

APPROPRIATIONS FOR OUR SCHOOLS.

These have been generous in the past. May the time never come when there shall be parsimony here.

ROLL OF HONOR.

The following have a perfect record in their attendance for the year:

ALICE E. KENT,	FRANK P. GAGE,
NETTIE E. BUTLER,	ELLA CURRIER,
RUSSELL D. BUTLER,	NETTIE CURRIER,

FIRST ANNUAL REPORT
OF THE
Pelham Free Public Library.

TRUSTEES' REPORT.

At the annual March meeting of the town held at the Town Hall, March 8, 1892, it was voted to establish a Free Public Library, and a Board of Trustees consisting of three persons were elected to take charge of the same. On assuming their duties, they voted to annually publish a printed report at the end of each year, and show just what progress the library was making. In accordance with that vote the trustees take pleasure in submitting their first report. We think the library has got a good start and is very well patronized considering the short time it has been opened to the public. The 16th of March we issued printed circulars soliciting subscriptions of money and books to aid the library. To those who responded so generously, we, in behalf of the citizens of Pelham, return our hearty thanks, and we trust they may see the library enlarge from the 500 volumes we now have up to many thousands and become the pride of every citizen of Pelham.

(32)

We hope the town will vote a liberal appropriation for the ensuing year and give it a generous support. With a generous appropriation and the substantial aid which can be rendered by our young people we can bring our number of volumes from 500 up to 1500 by the time the next annual meeting comes around.

We sincerely thank the young people who have by giving entertainments so substantially aided this library, and hope they may realize some return for their labor by patronizing the library.

GEORGE H. CURRIER,
GEO. S. BUTLER,
FRANK M. WOODBURY,

Trustees.
