Funeral Services for Miss Josephine Carleton—Fire Burns Over 25 Acres of White Pine.

(Special Correspondence.)

Pelham, N. H., May 7.—The funeral of Miss Josephine Carleton was attended Saturday afternoon by a host of friends who deeply mourned her recent death which came with such suddenness and shock to all. The funeral was in charge of Mr. W. E. Woodbury, undertaker, of Londonderry, N. H., the Rev. Joseph L. Hoyt of Haverhill officiating as clergyman, assisted by our local pastor, Rev. Melvin J. Allen.

Miss Carleton was a charter member of Pelham Grange P. of H., and also a member of General Stark colony, U. O. F. P., both local organizations. Without doubt, Miss Carleton was one of the best known and one of the most highly respected young women of this town, well liked by all, always figuring prominently in affairs of a social nature, ready and willing to do her part toward making her home town pleasant and attractive to others and with a disposition of such kindness and generosity as to endear her unequivocally to all her associates. The body was laid at rest beneath a bower of floral tributes, all heartfelt expressions of love and sympathy, in the family burial lot in the Gibson addition to the Centre cemetery. Willis Hobbs, George F. Wood, James Macaladin and Sheffield Lyon were the bearers.

The following is a list of the flowers: Sheaf of wheat from the mother, Mrs. Amelia Carleton; two pillows from the brothers and sisters, wreaths the Misses Murray, Mr. G. M.
