PELHAM, N. H.

Pelham, Sept. 8.

Mrs. Alice M. Hillman, buried today, in Pelham cemetery, was born and spent the greater part of her life here. For many years she gave unstintedly of her time and talent to the community life in this town. She was a musician of great ability, organist of the Congregational church until her removal to Florida, training the choir not only for church services but for many musical events. The old fashioned concerts and vesper services were a source of enjoyment to a great many.

She was a woman of rare personal beauty, charm and character, one who loved nature and the best in literature, an inspiration to all her family and friends.

Pelham Historical Society, Pelham, New Hampshire
William T. Hayes & Karen Genoter