2 Brothers Hurt
as Plane Crashes
Side of N. H. Hill

NEWBURY, N. H., June 30—Two brothers were seriously injured today when their single-engine converted Army plane sheared off tree tops in the residential area here and smashed into the side of Bly Hill, a two-mile climb from the main road on the northeast side of Lake Sunapee.

Searching parties located the two men after more than four hours’ search.

Taken to the New London Hospital were Albert K. Hirsch, 46, and his brother, Carl A., 46, both of Pelham. State police said the younger brother was the pilot of the craft.
The pilot had bound his leg in a makeshift splint and was hobbling along the trail when he was discovered by the searching party of five men.
The younger brother shouted, “Never mind me. My brother is pinned in the plane. He is worse off than I am.”

Dr. William Clough Jr., of Newbury who accompanied the rescue party up the 1800 foot climb administered a hypodermic to the trapped passenger.
The other four men, Roy Hall, William Slayter and Wayne LaPorte, all of Newbury and Frank Taylor of Concord, pried the pinned man from the wreckage.

Rescue Took Five Hours

It was close to five hours before the men had taken the two crash victims from the scene and they were placed on a tow truck to be taken to the hospital.

Hall said the plane had flown over his house shortly before 4 p.m. the afternoon. The wings clipped the tops off the 60-foot pines, Hall told police.

Hall said it was very overcast and he thought the pilot was seeking a landing place.
The two men had taken off from Lebanon this morning and had flown to Nashua. They were making the return trip when they crashed.
